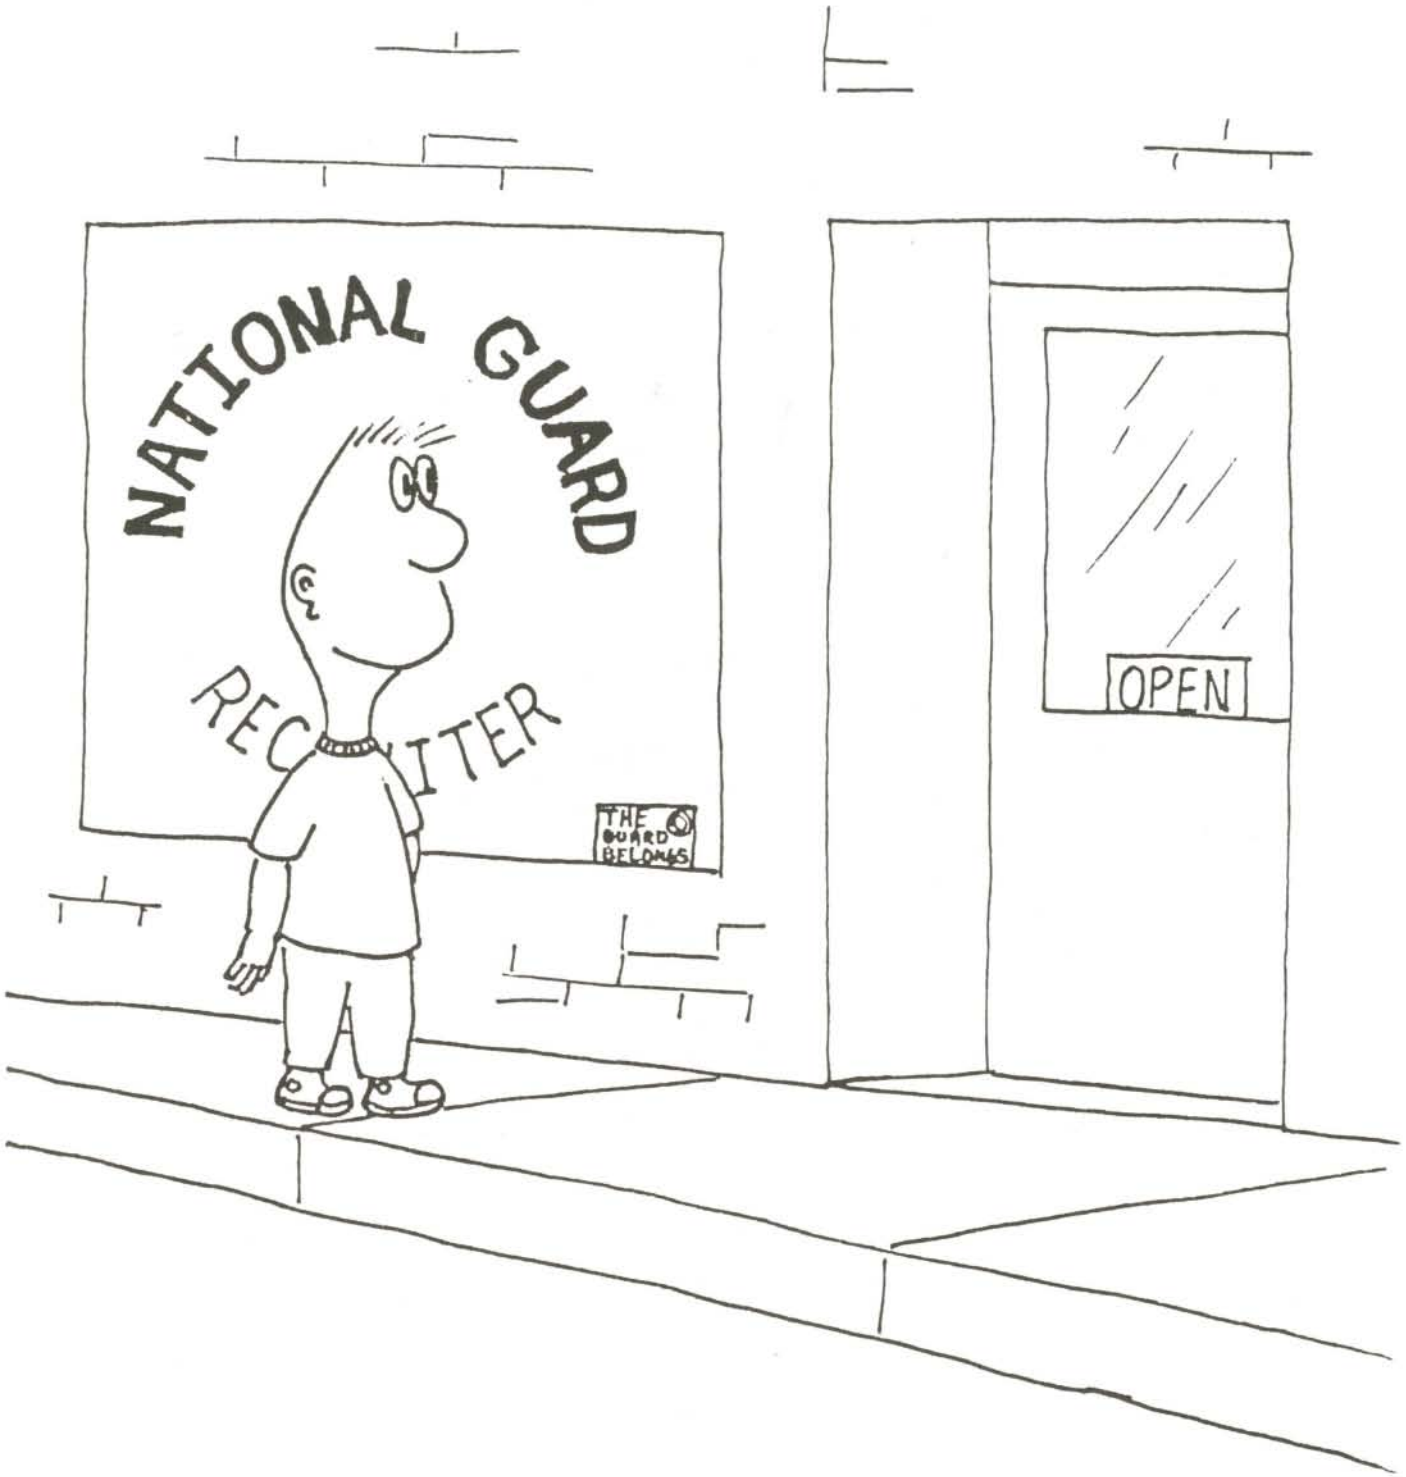
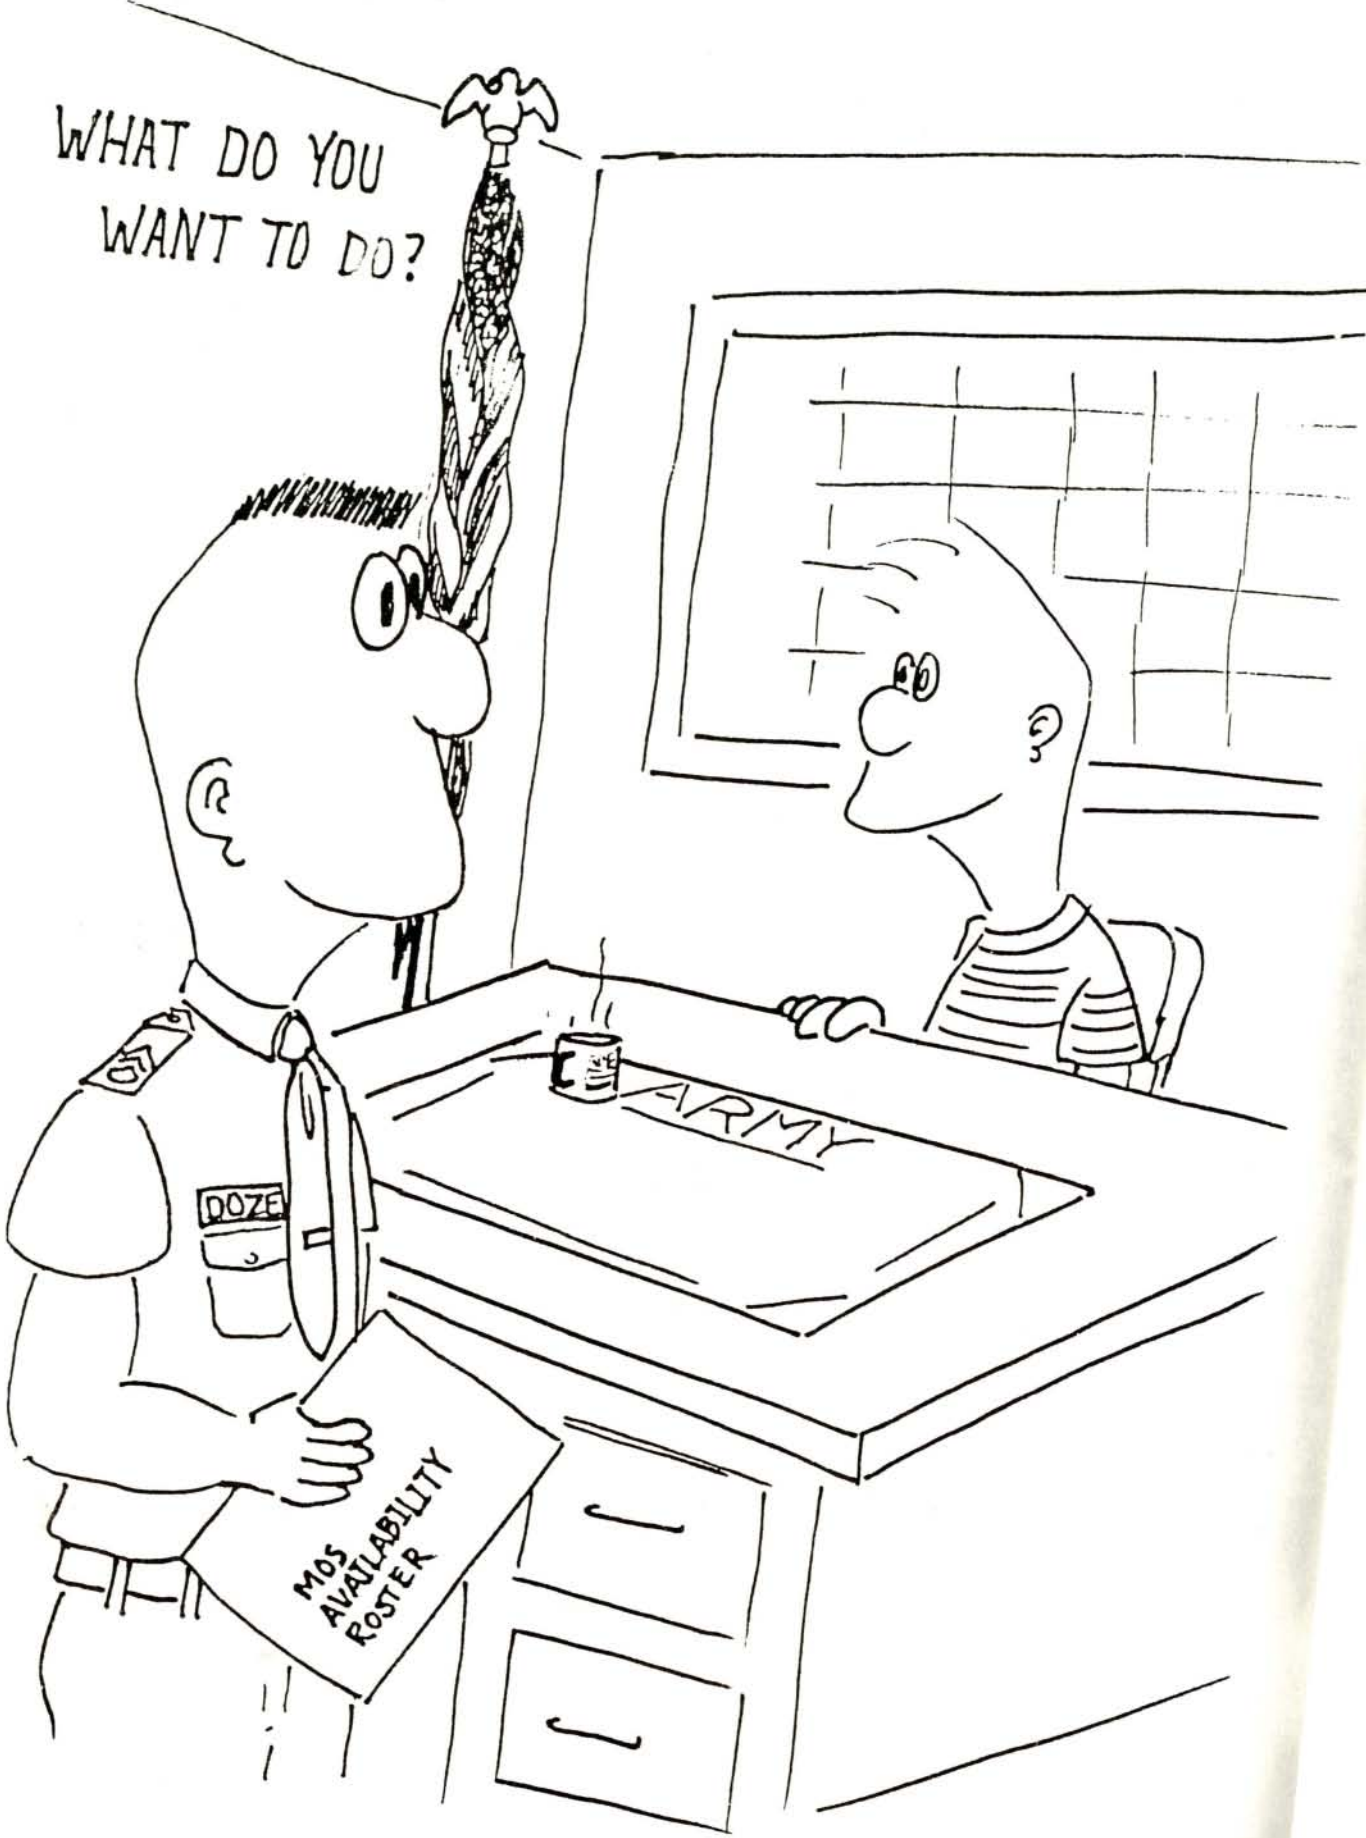
IT STARTS HERE.



If you want to become a soldier, you have to see a recruiter.



There are many jobs to choose from in the National Guard.

'AIRBORNE'

Some soldiers learn to parachute from Army planes. When they jump, they yell, "AIRBORNE".

Sometimes soldiers are taken to their training area in helicopters.

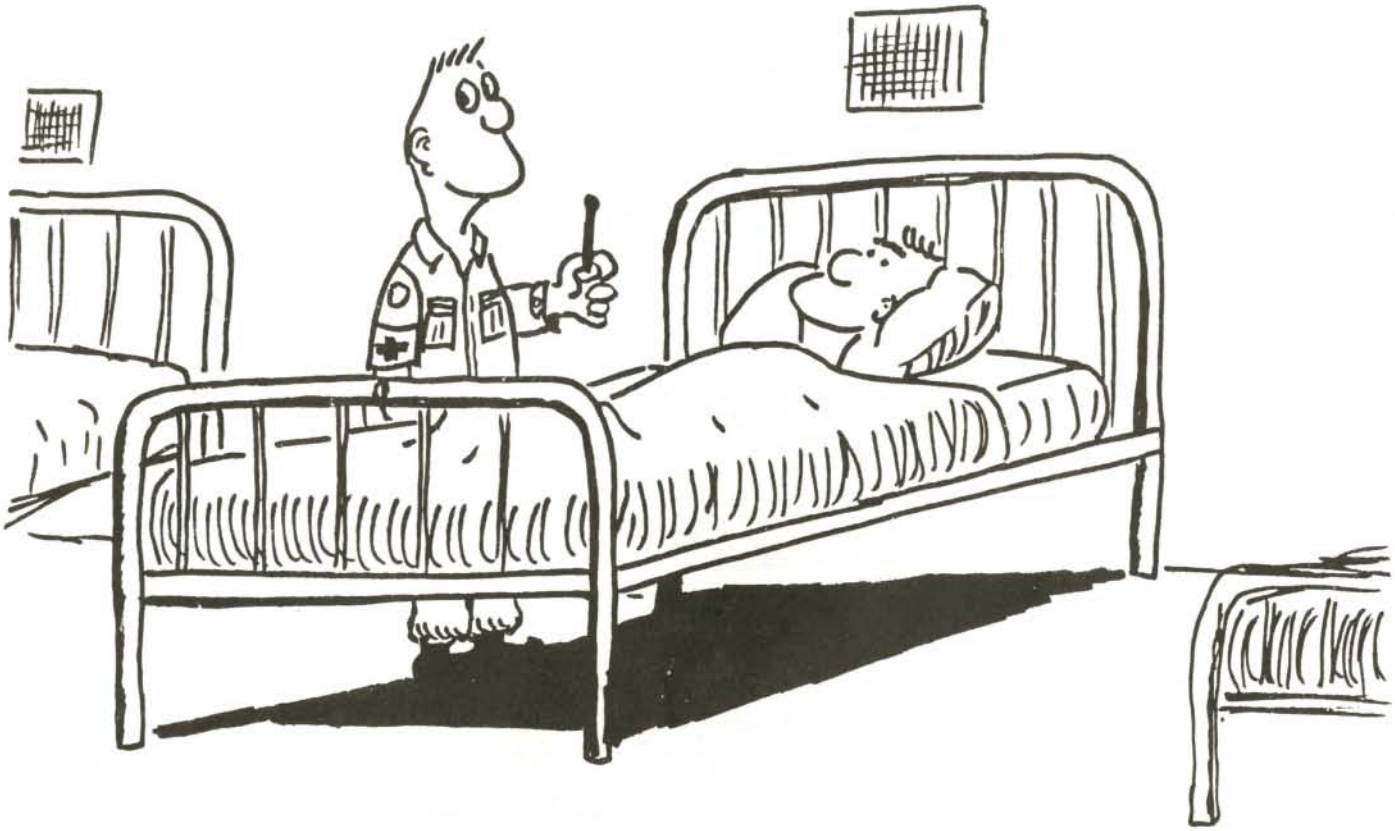
"HUMMER"

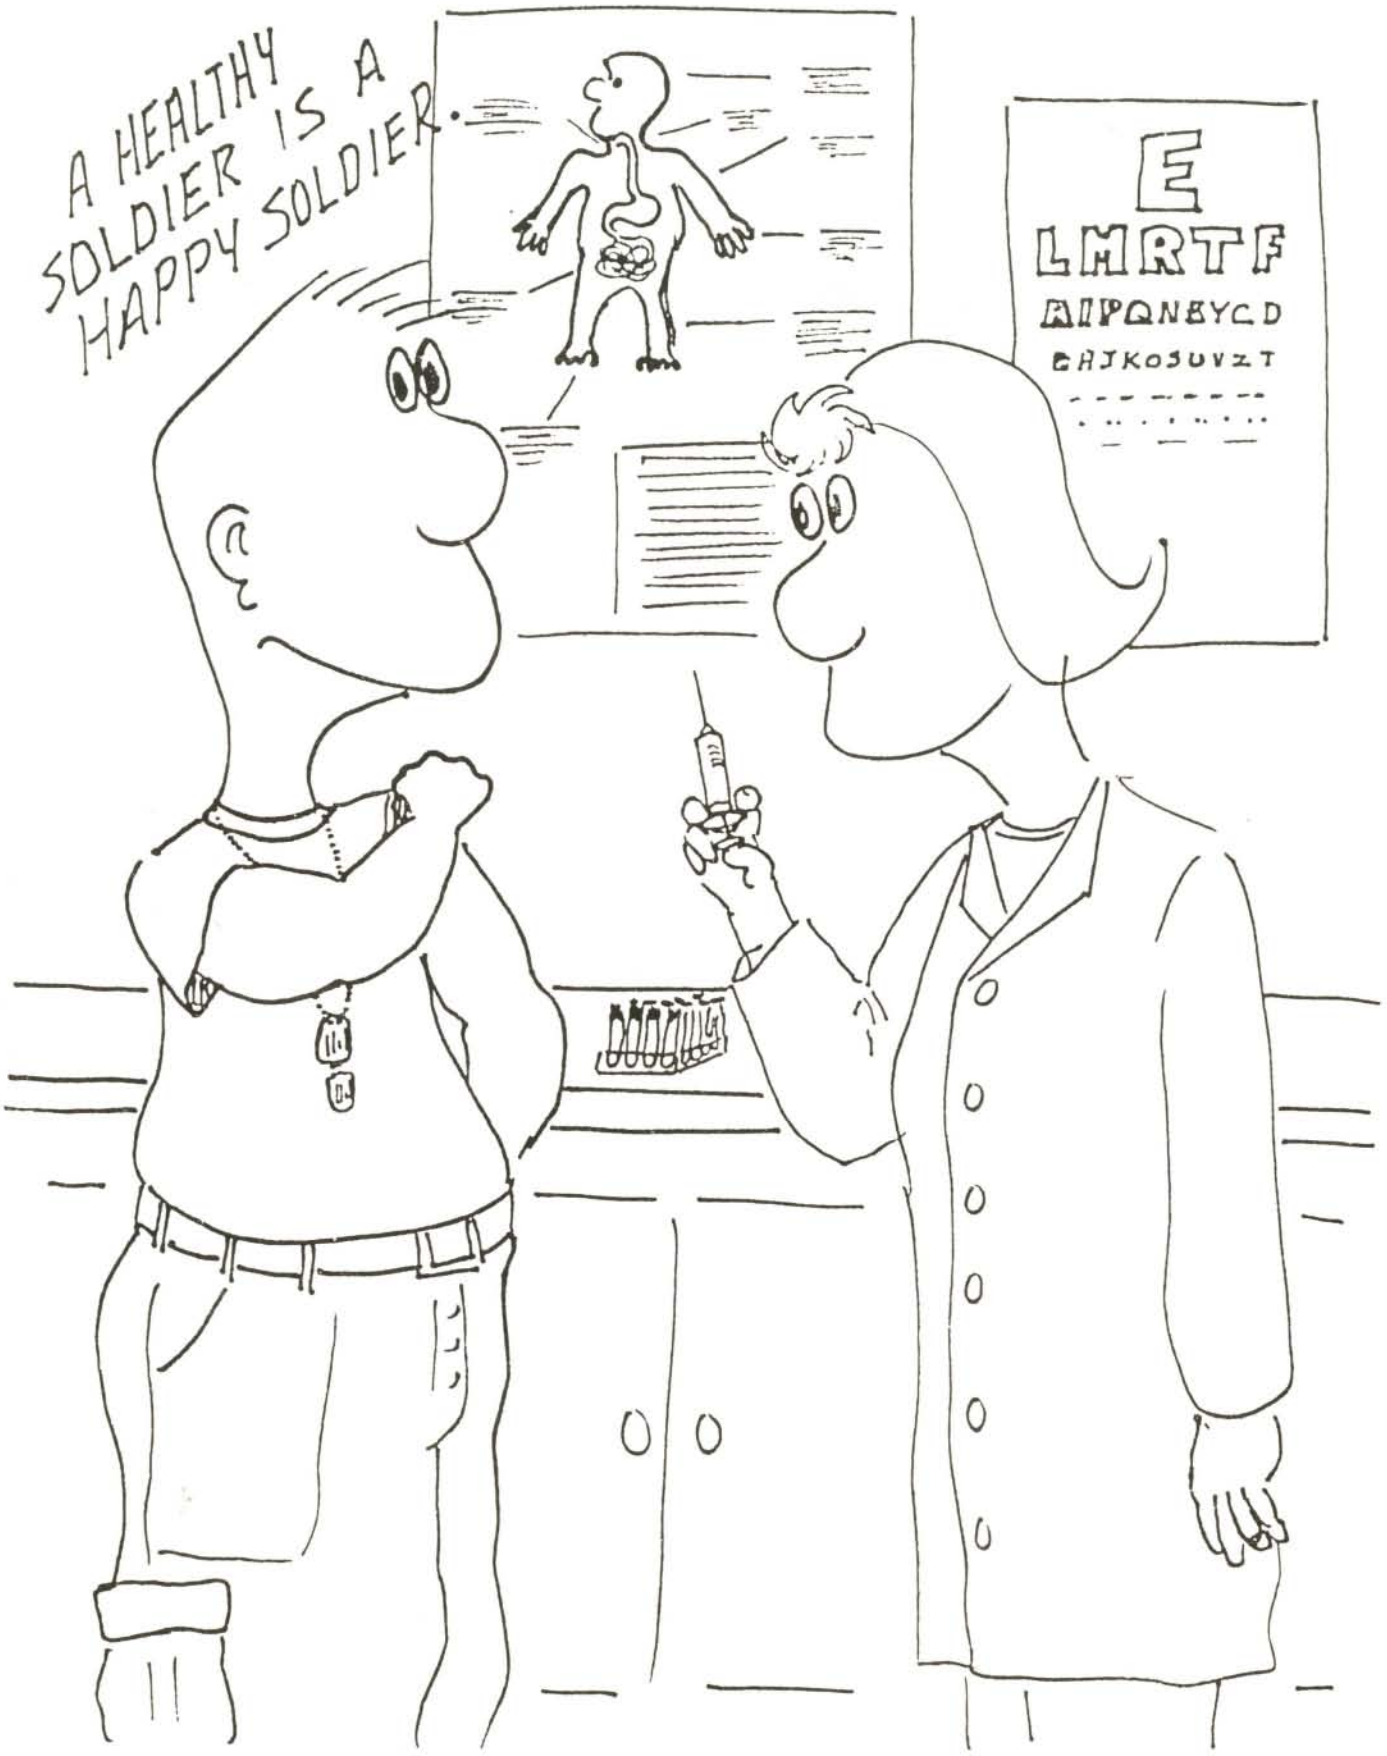
This vehicle would help a soldier get through jungles, deserts, or across a shallow river.

'MEDICS'



Soldiers that get sick or injured during training are taken care of by military doctors and nurses.

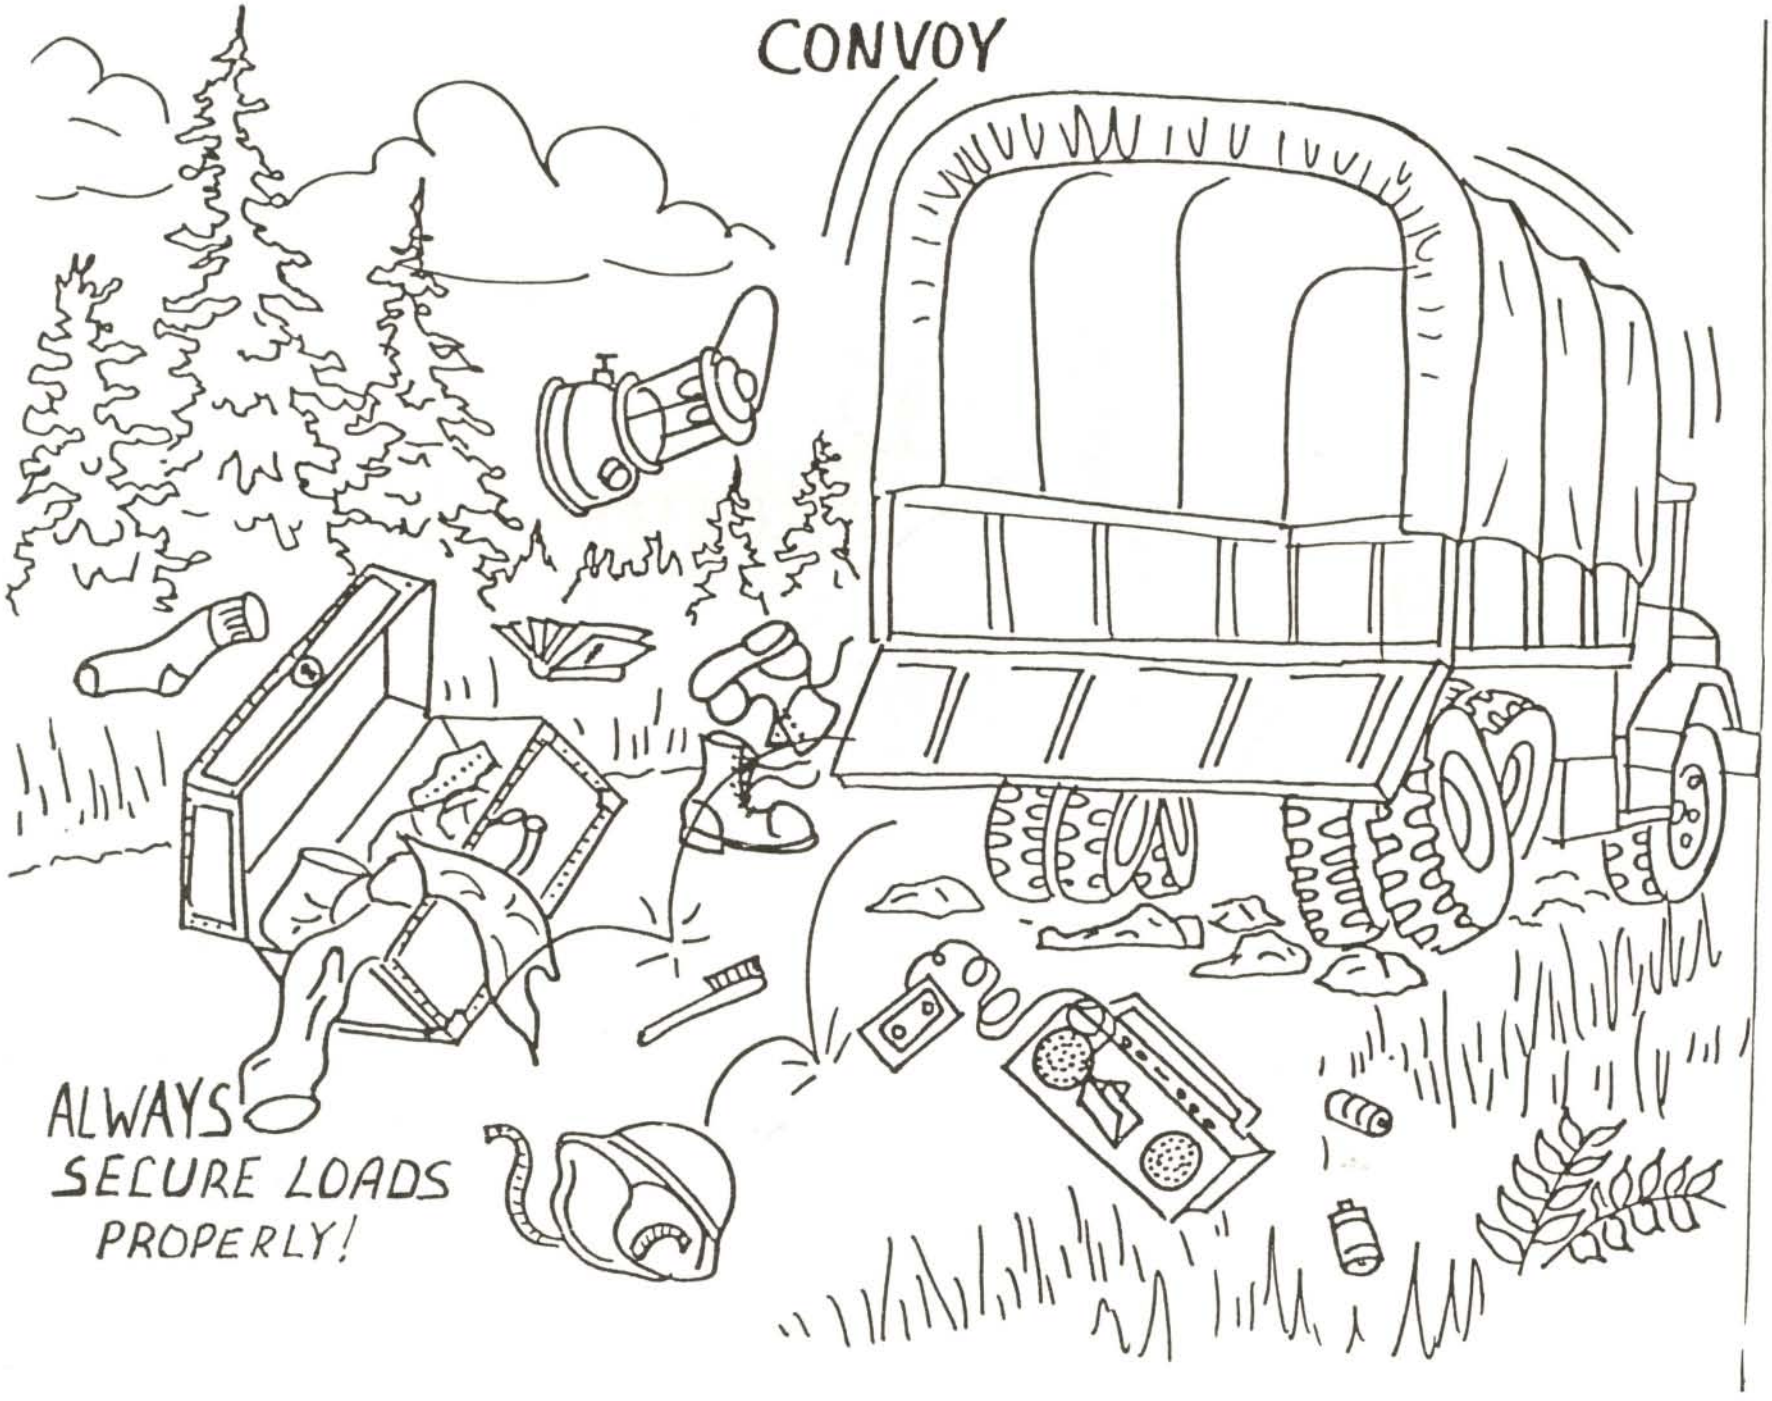
WOMEN SHARE THE SAME JOBS WITH MEN IN THE GUARD.



Even soldiers need shots to keep them healthy.

GETTING READY FOR A.T.

When it's time for Mom or Dad to go to Annual Training, the whole family can help pack.



Most soldiers pack well so this won't happen.

A soldier learns to breathe in a mask that protects him from dangerous air.

DIG IN

Digging foxholes is hard work, but they serve as protection from the enemy.

'TACTICAL TYPING'

During training, tents are used for offices and hospitals.

It's fun to sleep under the stars
during training.

A SOLDIER LEARNS CULINARY SKILLS!
SOUP
ATOS
100 LBS

Most soldiers help out in the kitchen
or mess tents by peeling potatoes, cracking eggs and washing dishes.

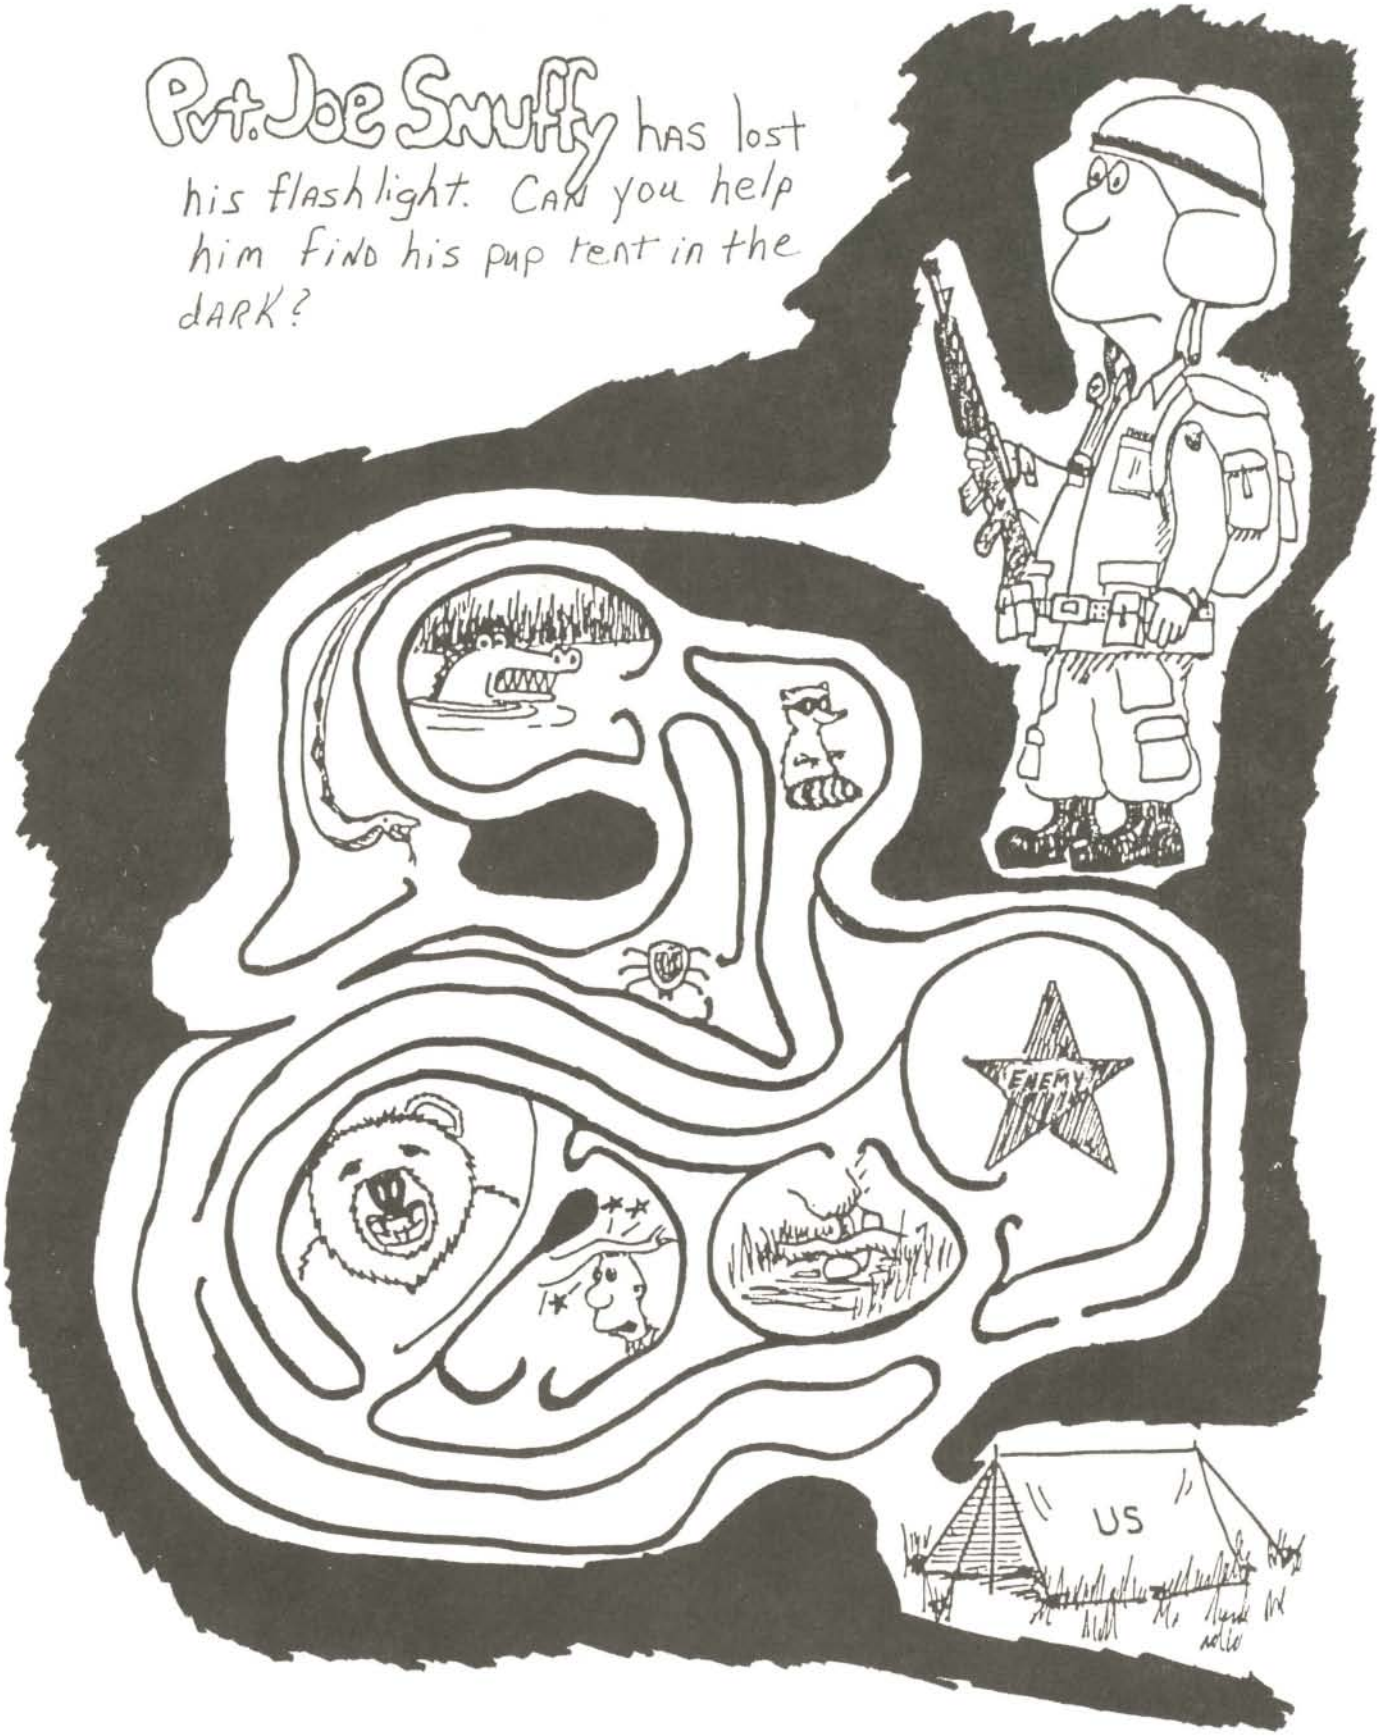
Pvt. Joe Snuffy has lost his flashlight. Can you help him find his pup tent in the dark?



WE'RE ALL PART OF THE GUARD FAMILY.

When you turn 10 years old, you will go to the armory to have your picture taken. This picture is put on a special ID card.

Family Support Groups plan picnics and other fun family events.

CHRISTMAS WITH THE GUARD.

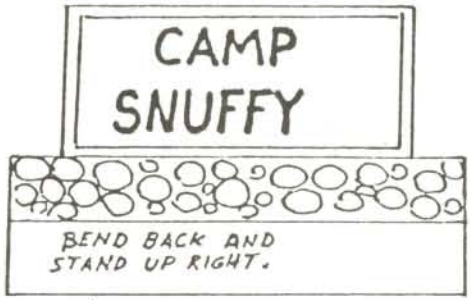
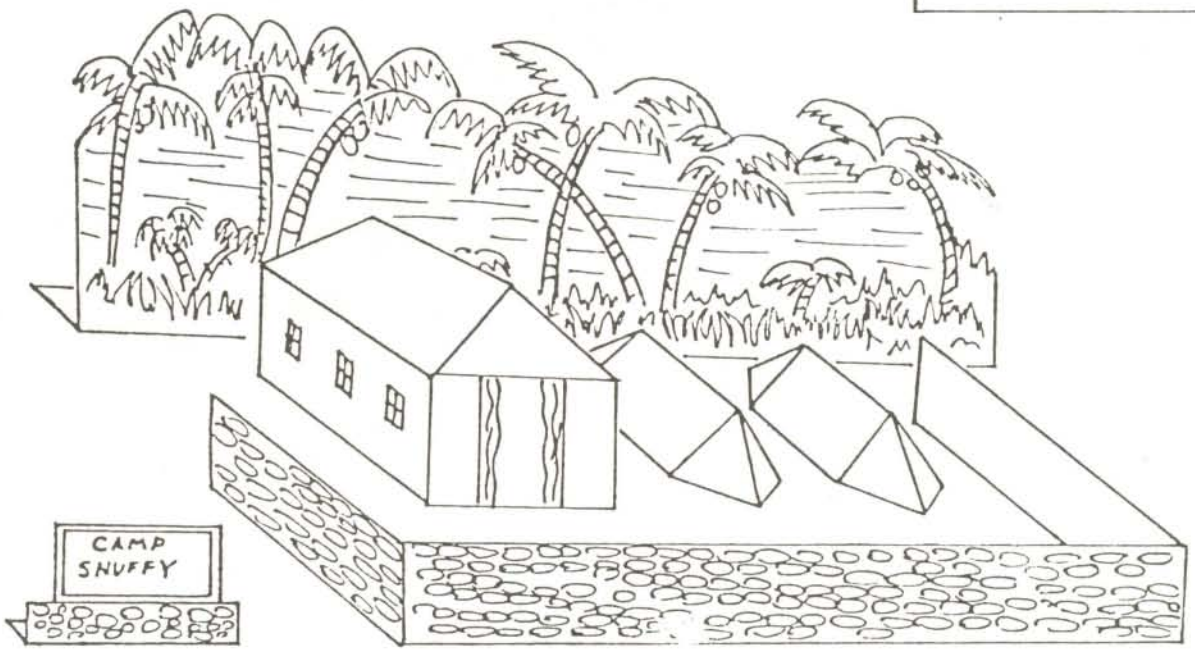
Family Days are a special time for families to learn about the National Guard.





You can make Camp Snuffy. Be sure to have Mom or Dad help use the scissors to cut out all the pieces.
